2 women fight over Iggy's body

Mike A says no to younger bro's cremation

By Gil C. Cabacungan

THE WOMEN in the life of Negros Occidental Rep. Ignacio "Iggy" Arroyo are both claiming his remains.

Kleia "Neli" Arroyo, the lawmaker's estranged wife, and her lawyer Lorna Rapason filed in their mission to bring his body home from London because the director of the mortuary would not turn it over to them.

The director was said to be acting under the instruction of Grace Euse, Iggy Arroyo's longtime companion, who was at his bedside when he was taken off life support on Jan. 26.

The director allegedly continued to recognize Euse as the lawmaker's next of kin because Alicia Arroyo failed to show proof that her marriage had not been annulled.

Editor's Note: Now on its 23rd anniversary, the Inquirer's Filipino of the Year honors a living Filipino who made the most positive impact in the past year as voted upon by the editors and consistent editors. Aside from the one most voted upon, the other nominees in the order of their number of votes were Lito de Luna (news editors have been voting for him since 1990), the Inks Film Festival, Drug-Infected Teens, President Aquino (last year's winner), Ashah, Robin Lim, Netizen, Beauty Queens and Money "D").

WERE an artist to place together a collage of the names and faces of the winners, relief workers, volunteers and donors who stood and dreamed during and in the aftermath of Tropical Storm "Bending" and other calamities in 2011, the resulting artwork would look, without doubt, like this within.

A good heart beating at its core would cause the collage to glow.

There is no master list of the volunteers and donors, some tracking their names, their faces, their deeds or their gifts (in the future, there should be an effort at keeping one). But they were there—where and where they were needed.

It was in the last quarter of 2011 that the most destructive typhoons hit the country: "Pablo" and "Yani" blew into Luzon in September and October and left 161 dead. The Day 1 to 11: Legal points hotly debated and evidence presented

By Paul C. Pangalangan
Columnist

THIS SUMMARY of the impeachment trial thus far of Chief Justice Renato C. Corona is organized around the legal principles and the evidence presented. The legal principles involved in the course of the proceedings. The factual portion deals with the evidence presented by the prosecution.

From Day 1, they have conced repeatedly on whether the impeachment trial should be held in the strict standards of a criminal case, or the more relaxed standards of an administrative case.

The first was when, presiding officer Juan Francisco, Jr., filed on his own and later upheld by the Senate 14-6, rejected the prosecution's request to subpoena Corona and his family to testify or produce documents, citing Corona's right against self-incrimination which apply typically but not exclusively in criminal cases. It also cited the family's constitutional immunity based on the rule of DREAM. Much like our mother company, Concepcion Industries, Inc., this advocacy started as a dream. While CI envisioned a country's progress through industrialization, the Condura Skyway Marathon seeks to preserve and strengthen the marine environment.

BELIEVE. Concepcion Industries, Inc. firmly believes that the Filipino has what it takes to be globally competitive - and has consistently proven it. The Condura Skyway Marathon is likewise convinced that the Filipino will rise to the challenge of protecting and preserving nature.

ACHIEVE. As it celebrates its 50th anniversary, Concepcion Industries, Inc. has established itself as the only surviving appliance manufacturer in the country. It is acknowledged as the leader in the refrigerator and air conditioning categories. It has created, nurtured and grown the name Condura as the Filipino appliance brand that now stands shoulder to shoulder with major global appliance brands.

In just 8 years, The Condura Skyway Marathon is now the premier running event of the Philippines - and soon will go international. All for preserving Tubbataha reefs, the whales of Donsol, the dolphins of Bohol, and now, the mangroves of Sibuyan de Zamboanga. Indeed... forward is the only way to go...

Marcos victims hit P-Nov's 'insensitivity'

'Corona trial good for educating people about law'

By Cynthia D. Salinas

EVIDENCE beyond a reasonable doubt, clear and convincing evidence, substantial evidence or a mere preponderance of evidence. Legal terms are becoming household words to the Philippines with the ongoing impeachment trial of Chief Justice Renato Corona.

The one thing good about the impeachment trial is it's an educational process for those who are not familiar with the law and the Constitution, Atty. Gen. Eduardo Daguin told the inquirer.

"The best thing about it is that when I walk around my district, the kids shout out to me, 'Objection your honor?' So I hope it would also bring more aware people into the legal profession, because we really need not just more lawyers but more good lawyers," said Marilou Riza, Rioson-Quinsac.

Both Angara and Quinsac, however, said that the impeachment could be used in two ways—to bring out the truth or to suppress it.

Simplify proceedings

Angara said the panel of impeachment for both the president and the defense is the impeachment trial and the media has simplified the proceedings in a language understood by the masses, who sometimes find it hard to grasp what is essential and what is not in the proceedings.

The use of Tagalog during the impeachment trial and outside the court, he said, helped a lot in explaining the proceedings to the people and raised their legal opinion.

Grasp the meaning

"I think as the whole gets good, everybody's talking like lawyers, even the children. So good, but in a deeper level we must also grasp the meaning of impeachment," he stressed.

He said the Corona trial teaches the public about the quality of evidence and testimony that knowledge of anything must come from evidence.

Quinsac said it would be good if the impeachment process would put emphasis in the spiritual or declared guilt of the Chief Justice.

"I think it should be an educational process for everybody to learn from that the justice of the Supreme Court may be the judge of (Chief Justice Corona) but they are not the law," Quinsac said.

Quinsac said it was "sad and disappointing" that the impeachment process had become almost akin to a criminal case proceeding which would alienate the people.

Interest of the defense

"That's precisely why we get criticized by the defense. It is in the interest of the defense for the people to have understanding the situation... If you throw in all the legal jargon, people are going to get confused with the proceedings that they won't believe me, it is to their interest," Quinsac said.

Whereas the reach, Senator Judge, Rioson-Quinsac said, the bench must find out what is stability in law or extra-constitutional options.

"In essence, the bench does some controversy but it does give to a sense of stability because there are men paragon who stands who can hold people accountable," he said.

Getting participation

Corona said the question was how to get more people to participate.

He said American scholar Charles Wade had described the role of the people in an impeachment process as that of "vigilant waiting."

Corona said that with the emergence of digital communication, social networking and mass blogging, people probably have more voice in various government and that way, it is important that they also have the same amount of influence that senator judges have.

"It's also good because it gets ordinary people who are not political parties suddenly drawn in because it is of national interest and it connects their lives," the senator said.

Lapid's inquiry

Corona said that when Sen. Lito Lapid held the floor last week to clarify the difference between a lawsuit and a impeachment, he was surprised but it was a valid question from someone who is not an expert on law.

Simple questions

"People like Senator Lapid should actually speak their minds more because many of our people have simple questions and simplest, it leads to better results," Corona said.

"Sometimes, it is the lawyers and the general public who complicate things too much," he added.

'DepEd's K+12 good for foreign firms'

By Tani Quinsac

THE GOVERNMENT's flagship education program that would cover the basic education cycle by two more years may be good news for foreign firms.

DepEd Secretary Armin A. Lucan said that the program would be a significant step in the development of the country's education system.

The College Education Trust of the Philippines (CETP) and the Department of Education (DepEd) are working on the K+12 program, which would add two years of senior high school to the current 10-year education cycle, say officials.

Lucan said that, based on the qualifications of the graduates,

PH first to use new oral cancer detecting technology

By John M. Azeiteiro

A NEW TECHNOLOGY used to scan mouth lesions may now be a life-saving tool to detect possible oral malignancies.

With a 95-percent sensitivity rate, the instrument will be used in the country ahead of its other Asian neighbors to detect oral and throat cancers in their early stages.

Called "OralAssure," the scanning procedure entails both cytopathology and DNA analysis that provides results as quickly as five days.

"For the first time, we can now be years ahead in detecting oral cancers as we can now examine lesions even before they become malignant," Dr. Michael Argento of the Philippine Medical Association (PMA) said.

The PMA, along with a former U.S. State and visiting doctor, previously launched the "OralAssure" detection system in Manila.

Noting that the technology would be first used in the Philippines, the PMA said it planned to screen hospitals and dental clinics they would screen samples of patients' tissues and send them to a central laboratory in Genoa, Italy.

It said that the Dr. Argento's Medical Center in Manila would be the first laboratory which offers testing laboratories planned to screen patients' tissues and throat cancers.

"This will be a test that can help in early detection."

Now's the best time to secure your child's future.

Parents often wonder if they can afford to send their child to college. Good news is, even during these uncertain times, there is a way to guarantee that your child gets the best college education possible.

All it takes is investing in an education plan. Doing so will provide a sustainable means to prepare for your child's education as your money gradually gains interest. The education benefits are paid out according to the schedule of your chosen program. And since education plans offer high levels of investment, the sooner you buy an education plan, the lower the premiums you pay in the higher education benefits you get.

When it comes to choosing the right education plan, make sure to go for one which makes your investment truly rewarding.

PhilPlans' Sunlife and MetLife education plans guarantee that your child's future remains protected at all times. The increasing education benefit will please you from inflation and before too long, parents need not worry since even if the planholder passes away, the education benefit remains and the plan is considered fully paid. That's right, upon graduation, the planholder will also receive a graduation cash that's equivalent to 100% of the total education benefits. Aside from the rewards for your beneficiary, both products offer comprehensive insurance coverage such as total and permanent disability benefit for the planholder, and accidental death and disability insurance for the planholder and child.

Your investment remains secure since every PhilPlans education plan is backed up by the company's P15.7 Billion Trust Fund (audited up to December 31, 2010) representing almost half of the pre-retirement fund of Sunlife and P779 billion for MetLife in education benefits, the company has paid out P980 billion in 2011 alone.

If you think getting this type of investment is beyond your current budget, think again. PhilPlans' education plan starts at P14,400 for a 3-year, 3-year college plan. This means you only have to set aside P1,216/month or P40/day for step-by-step and start securing your child's future today. Get a PhilPlans Sunlife or MetLife education plan.

BIA, ZAMBALES—A bodyguard of former Zamboanga Gov. Amador Deloso was shot and killed in what police said was a clash with a group of policemen manning a checkpoint in Basilisa town on the eve of the special congressional election in the province's second district on Friday.

Local media, a police officer, died in a hospital after he and his two bodyguards were shot by a group of men in Basilisa town on the eve of the special congressional election in the province's second district on Friday.

changing them instead with a lower officer for disbursement to a person in authority.

Lawyer Hilda Baldoza David, Zamboanga election supervisor, said the incident could not be classified as election-related because the death was the result of a separate act of violence for a criminal case.

Process completed
Despite the violence in Basilisa, election precincts opened at 7 a.m. on Saturday in 16 towns comprising the second district, and closed promptly at 3 p.m., the said.

A witness has yet to be proclaimed as of 5 p.m. yesterday.

Scandal also related to qualify the election as election violence case, he said, the police had completed the investigation.

Police said the death was taking in a vehicle with a group of men when a police mobile team encountered them at 7:15 p.m. Friday at an election checkpoint on the Zamboanga-Tulunan Road at Barangay Sintang in Basilisa.

The police team had responded to a report that Barangay Captain Ben Bragay (longer of Barangay Sintang in Basilisa) was allegedly being harassed by men in a blue Toyota van and a red Mitsubishi Subarus.

Negrense conductor debts a Mr's Carnegie Hall

By Lydia K. Solis
The Inquirer

NEW YORK—Negrense pianist Reynold Quinsig, president of the University of the Philippines (UP) College of Music, made his conducting debut in recent Carnegie Hall in New York on Feb. 2 with the world premiere of "Oceans of a Hundred Flowers."

"I feel so excited for my first time conducting a symphony orchestra," he said, smiling. "It's a great honor to be here."

Quinsig, who is now a professor of piano at the University of the Philippines, is a member of the University of the Philippines (UP) College of Music. He played piano in his early age, but when he was 10, he was asked to play the piano in his school's orchestra. He was then asked to play the piano in his school's orchestra.

He studied at the UP College of Music where he met his wife, Reynold Quinsig, a former professor, pianist, and conductor. He was then asked to play the piano in his school's orchestra. He was then asked to play the piano in his school's orchestra.

Tighter security on UP campus urged

By Julia P. Rueda

THE MOTHER of University of the Philippines student Loriel Canille Hina who was seriously injured when she was attacked by robbers inside the Viceroy Hall has called for tighter security inside the UP campus as the victim remains unconscious and in critical condition at a hospital.

Calling the incident an "eye-opener," Canille Hina said there must be improvement on security on the 405-hectare UP Diliman campus.

She pointed-out that with the life of her daughter, Loriel Canille hanging in the balance, parents need to be assured that their children are studying and staying in a safe place.

This developed as the UP administration announced that more security personnel could be deployed near the Viceroy Hall where Hina was drugged and stabbed before being released on Wednesday.

Hina, a fourth year political science major, was a volunteer of the University Student Council when she was attacked by two young men pretending to be interested in securing a book at her week's library loan.

At that time, Hina was at the USC office inside Viceroy Hall where she was drugged and stabbed before being released on Wednesday.

In a statement released, revealing the UP administration said there would be more UP

Security personnel especially in the vicinity of the student center "in order to rebuild confidence."

The UP administration also expressed their sadness and sympathy for the Hina family.

"We are profoundly affected and deeply saddened by the incident that happened at the USC office," the statement said as it pledged to continue to support Hina as a member for

Graver charge vs suspect sought

CORRIE Hina, the mother of the victim of a violent robbery inside the University of the Philippines Diliman campus, wants a graver charge against the suspect, but an assistant city prosecutor said it's unlikely in getting to achieve physical in possession of the victim's body.

"We are inclined to the fact, like what the mother stated, we filed frustrated since that against the suspect, but it was the fact's assessment of the case and indicated his behavior physical injury, according to Justice Dept. Michael Wenzel, said in a statement of the Quezon City Police District.

Sheepdog said the suspect, Carlo Pelajo, submitted to questioning on Thursday night and was detained at the district's jail.

He said Pelajo who admitted to have been the victim, Loriel Canille Hina, 25, with a reply as the land was charged with robbery and kidnapping of a student.

He said that a member of the group was involved against Pelajo's claim, a certain Darius Venero, who acted as a lookout when Pelajo went inside the University Student Council Office.

He said that Venero is charged with robbery and kidnapping of a student.

Laundry shop heist suspect surfaces

By Joanne L. Andrade and Lucy Simones

FOLLOWING the arrest of two men accused of killing a laundry shop owner and snatching his wife and a household helper during a robbery, a third suspect involved in the crime-related incident at the Manila police headquarters to their homes.

Richard On, 35, of Barangay 1st Barrio, Sagay City, appeared anyone at being linked to the group who robbed, then killed his former employer.

On, accompanied by relatives and some neighbors traveled from Sagay City to Manila and proceeded to the Manila Police District (MPD) homicide section office to formally clear his name.

"I would never do it. I am innocent and a good man and my family cannot see me with a criminal record," On said. He claimed he never left Sagay City for a month and could not have participated in the robbery, showing disinterest toward his former employer and the Sagay City police is given his statement.

Agnes from Sagay City, the robbers also snatched the victim's 22-year-old wife Chelene and Maribel Limonco, 25, the owner of the 10-year-old laundry shop, which remains confined at a Manila hospital.

"I decided to obtain their documents from the barangay and the police when I heard my name mentioned in the TV news reports about the laundry shop incident on Tuesday night. I was the only former employee of the 'Chinese master Richard,'" he pointed out.

He explained that he could not have committed the crime because he left Manila on Dec. 31 to celebrate the New Year at his hometown and he stayed there since then. "This is the only time I returned here (Manila)," On said, adding that he got his job as a driver at the laundry shop because his common-law wife, who is staying in his hometown, is pregnant with their first child and he wanted to start his family there.

To further prove his claim, he pointed out that on the eve of the crime, which happened on Jan. 30, he was in the 10-day party of the daughter of his 47-year-old neighbor Gonzales Arda.

CAGAYAN DE ORO CITY—This city is known as the City of Golden Friendship for valid reasons. Cagayanans are known to be gentle and generous, cheerful and friendly even to strangers.

Cagayan de Oro is also home to its renowned ham-making traditions, which has spawned an estimated 40 ham makers, big and small. Among the leading ham makers in this city is SLERS Industries which has come a long way from being the kitchen-based business it was in the 60s to the dynamic, global, multi-product enterprise it is now. The growth it has achieved was driven by modern systems and relentless product development.

There are two enterprises responsible for what SLERS has become. Fely Pichay, the school teacher turned business cook who began ham-making for household use and then made a promising teenage entrepreneur out of it, and her daughter Myra Rodriguez Pichay who crafts, infused systems, diversified production and marketing, and adopted food-making technology and international standards of quality.

Where it started

It began in Bulaknon in the '60s, recounts Fely Pichay, still pretty and then in 30. Her husband, who came from Cebu, was working for the big Mamon Philippine Corporation, which was raising its own hogs in the company compound. It was also making its own American country-style ham and all facilities of the staff, both Filipino and American, were given one pig each every Christmas.

"I loved cooking and making all kinds of food stuff from scratch. I represented with ham-making using the country-style ham as model." Gradually adopting the technology used at the time, she came up with her own version. Combining American style ham and Chinese ham, "Mostly being and not too salty."

Fely would bring her ham to Cebu during family reunions, whic-ing soon, relatives and eventually friends ordered the ham every Christmas. Soon, Fely was making it as a part-time basis as her market increased.

In 1980, Fely established SLERS (an acronym that stood for the names of the five Pichay children.)

Chinese coral bids farewell

The Grand General of the People's Republic of China and His Shaping hosted a farewell reception at the ballroom of the Sheraton Hotel in Manila. He said China has been the highlight of his diplomatic career, which he summed up thus:

"I have made many friendships here in the past four and a half years," he said. "And I have another project as evidenced by the construction boom and the increase in traffic."

His past endeavor in his heavily-titled role has helped him carry out his duties. To thank his grandeur he used a typical Chinese phrase, "Jiexiao."

"After six," said City Mayor Benito Alano, "I am honored to have the mayor of the Philippines, a small person which may mean an 'honored guest'."

China Government Ambassador General looked back on General General's Shaping's visit to China as one where he did "all the good work could do your performance has been commendable."

Then, in Chinese she said a few words she learned translated as, "China loves you, General... take care..."

A couple of weeks later the Chinese Ambassador hosted a big reception at the Grand Convention Center to celebrate the Chinese New Year to welcome. It was also an occasion for the Chinese community to meet the new Grand General, Zhang Sheng and his wife Chen Liang.

On Jan. 23 at 10 a.m., General General and Zhang were special guests, along with Governor General of the grand Chinese New Year celebration held in the Shangri-La. One star manager Jonathan welcomed them all and led them in "In of Spring, the sun's Chinese special" to personally release a magnificent fireworks was served.

At the evening at 7:30 p.m., the celebration of the 10th of the Marco Polo Plaza Hotel for the reception in long and lasting moments.

General manager Hans Huan and his wife he welcomed a large group of 100 who stepped in the hotel's Gold Marco for a reception Chinese night.

THIS SPORTS DRINK HAS 4 IONS. HOW ABOUT YOURS?

ION⁴ ADVANCED ELECTROLYTE SYSTEM

HAS A COMPLETE COMBINATION OF 4 ELECTROLYTES AND CARBOHYDRATES FOR EFFECTIVE HYDRATION.

POWERADE® introduces a new formulation

Powerrade is expanding the playing field for sports hydration with the introduction of new Powerrade ION⁴ with Advanced Electrolyte System. This upgraded formulation features the combination of four key electrolytes: namely Sodium, Potassium, Calcium and Magnesium to help replenish electrolytes in the same ratio typically lost in sweat.

Activities and seasons intensify sweat it out in pursuit of goals. Individual fitness is sported goals. When you're exercising hard, sweating, and desperately need to hydrate, it's natural to heat for the nearest bottle of water. Although it will quench your thirst, water does not have the electrolytes, carbohydrates and appealing taste that the new Powerrade ION⁴ has, each of which plays an important role in effective rehydration during or after exercise.

Minerals are an essential part of our diet for body functioning and structure. Certain minerals, also known as electrolytes, become ions in solution and acquire the capacity to conduct electricity. Four primary electrolytes typically lost in sweat are Sodium, Potassium, Calcium and Magnesium. Our body needs Sodium because it helps muscles contract. Potassium is important because it helps in overall energy metabolism. Calcium plays a major role in overall bone metabolism. And Magnesium is key to regulating cardiovascular and neuromuscular functions.

International soccer player Neil Etheridge, Steve Aoki, Chinese Australian, running coach Rio Dela Cruz and champion basketball player Dore Seman are among those who pledge to the upgraded formulation of Powerrade. They recognize that the effective hydration Powerrade ION⁴ provides helps them power through their limits.

Initially launched in the USA in 2008, Powerrade ION⁴ was subsequently launched in Canada, Europe and Latin America. Now it is made available in the Philippines in Mountain Dew, Orange Burst and Silver Charge flavors. Powerrade will be hydrating the 2012 Olympic Athletes in London.

German government grants Cross of Merit to Cebu rescue-and-shelter project

GERMAN AMBASSADOR IN MANILA, Peter Hoyer, recently visited Cebu with his wife Anna Maria and their five children. This was their first visit to Cebu, as well as their first trip out of Manila, since their arrival in the Philippines last September.

The ambassador presided over a ceremony held at St. James' Cathedral in Cebu for the award of the Cross of Merit to Fr. Felix Ballester, SVD, Fr. Victor, the superior for southern Philippines of the Society of the Divine Word, and Fr. Victor, a full-time professor of the theology at the University of San Carlos in Cebu.

Babies enter to be announced during the quarter-end Star Baby Search!

Be on the Cover of Baby Magazine!

It was a doubly exciting afternoon when Baby Company, the Baby Specialist, announced the winners of its Star Baby 2011 competition and launched the Star Baby 2012 search during the recent Grand Baby Fair at the SM Megamall Megatrade Hall.

Cute and adorable Earl Sebastian Espinosa was named the Grand Winner of Baby Company's Star Baby 2011 search, while lovable Maria Beatriz Sonora, Elias James De Kani and Ulrich Vaughn Castro were awarded as winners for the fourth quarter.

The same event also launched the Star Baby 2012 search, for where just like Earl, Beatriz, Elias and Ulrich, your baby can get a chance to shine as a Star Baby.

Babies up to 18 months are invited to join and get a chance to win exciting prizes. An accumulated P5000 minimum purchase at Baby Company outlets at the SM Department Store within the promo period entitles one to register and join the contest. Purchases must include at least P500 worth of any combination of Pigeon and/or BG Dry Items, and registrants must be holders of the Baby Company More Card, or SM Advantage and Privilege cards.

Star Baby participants will be judged on their healthy looks, smooth skin, happy disposition, and overall appearance. These quarterly winners will be selected from the Metro Manila, Luzon, and Visayas areas, and each will be entitled to P20,000 worth of SM Gift Certificates, P10,000 worth of Pigeon Items, P10,000 worth of BG Dry products, a photo package from Great Image, and so much more. They will also have a chance to be the Grand Winner of the Star Baby search.

Make your baby the next big star in Baby Company's Star Baby 2012 search. For more details, visit Baby Company outlets at all SM Department Stores or visit our website at www.babycorp.com.ph and follow us on Facebook.

Two of a kind

THE TUDOR luteviers, Terry (left) and Paul, have a lot in common apart from their love for music.

By Harold E. Cross
Professor, San Jose State University

HUGHES brothers Yancy and Earl revealed that at one point, they had to defy the wishes of their parents who didn't want them to pursue a career in music.

"We had to band together, to survive, because they didn't want this life for us," said Toney, guitarist of the

And, from many of the local Sponge Club, explained: "That is a certified public accountant. He's also a scientist guy. I guess he expected his luck to become successful in science, not in government circles, although he was the one who taught us how to play the pot on—and he stops—he just didn't want to like we did."

"To him, it's preaching 'follow your heart' thing," Young, who is older between the two, pointed out. "For example, we know that our purpose in life is to write songs and perform them, but we also have to find a way for this to be a career. Otherwise, we're just a pair of losers."

we began doing this, all ya needed was hand saws. Hand saws is the most supportive," said Neil, whose pop-rock band recently released its fourth album titled "New One Tugues" under Universal Records.

"I guess when he married me, he was in pretty bad shape," Henry agreed. "I think that at some point we did."

Teal added: "I think he really loved music all along. He just didn't want us to get into trouble and wished that we grew up the normal way."

Text: This Villavieja is my song-writing partner for the newest album. I was able to make some songs with this. It's an acoustic guitar I bought as a really cheap price. People say it doesn't sound very good, but I like it. It sounds like a real guitar to me.

If you plan on buying an acoustic guitar, choose a good brand that isn't necessarily pricey but entry-level Yamaha is already good. Don't get someone to set it up for you, Jim Custer.

pass through him, from Maynard James and the members of Okefenokee to his film.

Roney: Neil and I built out a DVD (that's how South I guess I love music because it's played well right out of the box. It doesn't need setting up. DVD is better in the future for making very expensive hand-wired guitars. The ones we have are the affordable ones.

Continuing the two, Neil has the fancy achievement medal. While mine only has two stars, Neil's has four and is a lot more. Neil has two stars for his early movies—very PG-13 design. Neil has the same badge and soundtrack, the same configuration of volume, tone and pickup selection, but I have two categories. This brings a player's ability to touch the higher tones, while his guitar has a solid body, mine has a corky. This is called a second look, which makes the guitar's tone and touch.

Having a guitar like this is not as good as to keep it, it's just a lot of money at the price of the book and the work. How the neck is made is a lot of money. It's all from the tone of your guitar. If you're serious about your music, buy a guitar and a good man. The man will tell you I have one that's more expensive than the other one is.

Seems

Neil: Brian is a '90s guy, so his person also came from that period. I've been using this guitar and Neil's since I was in Grade 8. For formal occasions, I use Kenneth Cole Black. I got it only because someone begged me to have a different color. Neil: It's not as formal as the Verano, which I think is more affordable. I sometimes think the three are the same.

Roney: When I was young, I only on my own to buy my guitars. The world at the time was like today's. There was a change in the way we perform. I bought, as to my Mykita, once my wife told me to buy it. I bought it like a coin. It's important that she like it.

DVDs

Neil: One of my favorite movies is "Chobani." It's a commentary on culture. The movie shows the families of my generation... those who say "it's" and "whatever" because America is the country where "friends." I've never seen all the best of all the episodes. I know that the first line over them was by the character Monica. Rachel Green, not the actress Jennifer Aniston, was my dream girl while growing up. I can't even think of her.

I'm also a fan of the series "Law." I'm really excited with the "Law" series. I have some of them and all these things. I've even joined a group to discuss about the show that's being run by a friend.

Roney: I'm a "Law" fan, too. I liked the ending, even though some people reacted differently. I think the more who get disappointed with the act-5 film. I'm not that kind of guy. I thought the ending was perfect. It's true that a lot of things were left unexplained, but then, it's a mystery show.
